ARTIST STATEMENT

All material carries a past, and whether we acknowledge this lineage or not, it exists. It may be to our advantage — as a way of orienting ourselves in our world — to consider the cycles of creation and destruction intrinsic to the objects and materials that surround us. In this series of vessels, Homes, I explore the reincarnation of personal objects. These are extensions of, and memorials to, the lives that brought them together. Each vessel is made from objects left behind by the deceased residents of one home, and is named for the address of that home.
