

Metal Museum Donor Privacy Policy

The Metal Museum is committed to respecting the privacy of its donors and members. The Metal Museum collects personal information, including but not limited to names, address, phone numbers, or email addresses. This information is used to communicate with donors and members about their gifts and impact, Museum events or programs, and other purposes related to fundraising operations or donor recognition.

Payment information, such as the donor's credit card number, is collected only to process payments and is never retained by the Metal Museum once the donation has been processed. To the extent any donations are processed through a third-party service provider, donor's information will only be used for purposes necessary to process the donation.

The Metal Museum respects donor and member privacy and therefore never sells, shares, rents, or trades donor information with any other entity, nor send mailings to its donors or members on behalf of other organizations.

This policy applies to all donor or member information received by the Metal Museum, both online and offline, as well as any electronic, written, or oral communications.

To contact the Museum regarding this policy, or for additional privacy questions or concerns, please contact the Development Office via email at frances@metalmuseum.org.

This policy was approved by the Metal Museum Board of Directors on August 21, 2021. It was last updated in August 2021.
